

Alchemy of Self — Questionnaire

Chapter 1

1. What is your first name and how old are you?

This information will be used to personalize your Alchemy of Self manifesto.

2. What was your childhood like overall and what were you told about yourself growing up?

Describe the general atmosphere and environment you grew up in, along with the messages or beliefs your parents, teachers, or other important people instilled in you about your abilities, personality, or potential.

3. What was your educational and early career path like?

Include any major transitions, first jobs, or pivotal professional moments. How did you experience each phase - what did you feel about it at the time? What did these experiences teach you about yourself, work, or life in general? Share as much detail as you can about the journey and its impact on you.

4. Add photos of your childhood home, neighborhood, or places that represent where you grew up.

Explain in depth why you chose these photos. What does each photo represent about your upbringing and the environment that shaped you.

5. Growing up, what role did money play in your household?

Every family has its own relationship with money — whether it was talked about openly, avoided, tight, comfortable, or somewhere in between. Share whatever comes to mind about how it shaped the environment you grew up in.

6. What are the defining moments, big or small, that shaped who you are today?

These could be proud achievements, turning points, or harder experiences you had to move through. For each one, share what happened and the lesson or strength it left you with.

7. What has been the most significant life change or transition you've experienced in recent years?

Describe what happened, why it was important, and how it changed you.

8. Add a photo that represents a significant moment, achievement, or turning point from your past.

Explain what this moment was and why it was so important to your story.

9. What patterns do you notice repeating in your life?

What situations, relationship dynamics, or challenges keep showing up? Be very introspective here - what are certain belief systems that keep stopping you? What internal narratives or assumptions do you find yourself falling back into? Look beyond just the external events to examine the underlying thoughts, fears, or limiting beliefs that might be creating these cycles.

Chapter 2

1. How would you describe yourself right now in three sentences or less?

Describe yourself as you actually are - your temperament, how you handle life, and what's going on in your mind these days.

2. Where do you currently live, and what is your living situation like?

Tell us about your living situation - who do you live with, what's the space like, what do you love or dislike about it? How does your current environment affect your daily life and mood?

3. Add a photo of your current friends, group, or the people you spend the most time with.

Tell us about the people you spend time with these days — old friends, new connections, or a mix. What role do they play in your life right now?

4. Add a photo of your family.

How do you feel about your family relationships? What role does your family play in your current life? Are these relationships close, complicated, supportive, or distant? How has your family shaped who you are today? What are the dynamics like, and how much influence do they have on your life decisions and daily experience? Share as much detail as you can about your family connections and how they impact you.

5. What is your current relationship status, and how satisfied are you with your social life?

Tell us about your romantic life and friendships. Are you single by choice or circumstance? Do you have close friends or feel isolated? Be honest about whether your relationships are adding energy to your life or draining it.

6. What does your typical day look like from wake-up to bedtime?

Include your daily habits (both good and bad), work, personal time, and how you feel throughout.

7. How do you feel about your current job or career?

Are you fulfilled, frustrated, or somewhere in between? What specifically do you love or hate about your work? How does your job align with your values and long-term goals? What would need to change for you to feel more satisfied? How does work affect your overall well-being and sense of purpose?

8. What is your current financial situation?

Include your annual income, savings, and debt as you see fit. Beyond the numbers, how do you feel about your financial position? What are your biggest financial priorities or concerns? How has your relationship with money shaped your daily decisions and future planning? Share whatever level of detail feels appropriate about both the practical and emotional aspects of your finances.

9. What are your strengths and weaknesses?

List 5 strengths and 5 weaknesses. Don't just list them - explain each one. Why do you see it as a strength or weakness? Give examples of how each trait manifests in your daily life, relationships, or work. How do these characteristics help or hinder you?

10. What specific things consistently prevent you from taking action toward your goals?

Include both external obstacles (things outside your control like time, money, other people, circumstances) and internal resistance (fears, self-doubt, perfectionism, procrastination, limiting beliefs). Give examples of each and explain how they specifically hold you back.

11. What things do you worry about in the future?

Be specific about your fears and anxieties about what's ahead. Do you worry more about things within your control or outside your control? How do these worries manifest - do they motivate you to take action or paralyze you? What future scenarios play out in your mind most often?

Chapter 3

1. Who are 3 people you deeply admire, respect, or aspire to be like, and what do you admire about each?

They can be public figures, people you know personally, or historical figures. For each one, give their name and then the specific traits, behaviours, qualities, or achievements that draw you to them. Be as detailed as you can. Feel free to add a photo of each person too, if you have one.

2. What are your 3 most important goals and when do you want to achieve them?

Choose goals that would create real transformation in your life. Give specific deadlines rather than vague timeframes. What are the changes that would have the most significant impact on your overall life satisfaction and direction?

3. What does financial freedom look like to you?

Include specific income, savings, and what money enables you to do.

4. Add photos of your dream home.

Show different angles of the same home - inside, outside, and the features that stand out to you. Explain why you chose this specific home and what it represents about your ideal lifestyle. Be specific about the location, size, style, and features that appeal to you.

5. Add photos of your dream car.

Show different angles of the same car - exterior, interior, and the features you love about it. Explain what this car represents to you and why you chose it. What does this vehicle say about your personality, values, or lifestyle aspirations?

6. What are your ideal travel locations?

Describe the destinations you dream of visiting and what draws you to each one — the culture, adventure, relaxation, or something else you're hoping to experience.

7. Add photos showing your dream fashion style.

Describe what these fashion styles represent to you and how they align with who you are. Consider the emotions, confidence, or energy this aesthetic evokes and why it resonates with your personal vision. Share what wearing this style would mean for how you express yourself and move through the world.

8. What are some activities and hobbies you want to enjoy?

Explain why these activities and hobbies are important to your dream lifestyle.

9. Add photos of your dream fitness level.

How does this fitness level align with your dream lifestyle? What would this level of health and strength allow you to do in your ideal life? How would feeling this good in your body impact your ability to pursue your other goals and dreams? What does peak physical wellness mean for living your best life?

10. What does your perfect day look like from morning to night?

Include both personal time and business activities - describe your entire ideal day from start to finish.

Chapter 4

1. What matters most to you right now in your life?

What are your current priorities? Is it making money, advancing your career, spending time with family, improving your health, finding a relationship, personal growth, or something else entirely? Be specific about what's driving your decisions and where you're putting most of your focus and energy.

2. How have you been feeling about your life overall in recent months?

Optimistic, stuck, frustrated, content, etc. What's contributing to these feelings? Are you in a good place mentally and emotionally, or going through a rough patch? What aspects of your life are working well, and what feels challenging or disappointing right now?

3. If you were to describe the future version of yourself who has already achieved everything you want, what skills, knowledge and qualities does this future self have?

How do they think, act, and carry themselves? Be specific about the gaps between current you and future you — the skills, knowledge, and qualities they have that you're still missing.

4. What are this future self's defining character traits, and how would others describe their personality and approach to life?

Select a total of 5 character traits.

5. What specific fears, doubts, habits, commitments and limiting beliefs are holding you back from becoming the person you admire and dream of being?

Write down the actual thoughts that stop you before you even try — "People like me don't..." or "I'm not smart enough to..." Then think about what you're clinging to that's actually keeping you small: a job that pays the bills but kills your soul, relationships that don't support your growth, or habits that feel safe but limit your potential. Sometimes what feels like security is actually a prison.

6. Looking at the people you admire, can you see how your current identity might conflict with what you need to become to achieve your dreams?

Explain the internal conflicts you notice between who you are now and who you need to become.

7. What's the single biggest thing that must change for you to bridge the gap between who you are now and your future self?

If you could change one fundamental thing about how you think, feel, or act, what would create the biggest transformation? This is usually something internal - a core belief, deep fear, or pattern that's running everything else. What's the keystone change that would unlock everything else?

8. What would you regret most if you looked back 3-5 years from now and hadn't accomplished?

What would feel like a genuine waste of your potential? If you're still in the same place 3-5 years from now, what would hurt the most about that? This fear of regret shows what matters most to you.
